Q: Sorting issue with javascript - `a.options.sort == 1` Why is this sorting of my options not working? Whenever I do a sort on the options on a select menu, it works fine unless I use the compare on option `a.options.sort == 1`.

A: This behavior is caused by the fact that you have a `setTimeout` set up to get the selected option after the page has been loaded. This makes the selected option available to the Sort function after the page has loaded. There's a (slightly crummy) workaround for this: `$('#select[name="category"]').change(function() { var o = $(this).val(); var v = '{' + o + '}'; try { $('#' + $(this).attr('name') + '-sort').sortable({ items: '>option[value="" + v + ""], axis: 'y' }); setTimeout(function() { $('#' + $(this).attr('name') + '-sort').sortable('refresh'); }, 0); } catch (e) { } });` Imagine receiving a letter from your next-door neighbor, right now, saying that he had no plans to rent your furniture or your life. But this is what Frank and Betty Bauer, of Orland Park, Ill., did in 2014
