A: At first glance, your question is unclear. I'd start with: `awk -F"'^pancharatraagamasastrapdf27/ {print $2}'` This pulls the second field of lines that start with pancharatraagamasastrapdf27. If the field contains the string "caretslash", you may want to run: `awk -F"'^pancharatraagamasastrapdf27/ {print $2}' | grep caretslash` to remove those lines. Q: How to retrieve and show posts in the most efficient way I'm trying to retrieve, say, all the 1000 latest post from a facebook group. In order to retrieve them, I'm looping through each post, searching for the facebook id of the post's author and then searching for that id in the fb api. I've tried retrieving as many as 1000 posts by running a loop such as: for (post in $posts){ ${post.created_time} ${post.author.name} ${post.body} } However, this is kinda slow and the server is unfortunately an overloaded one. I'm making my requests every 5s and I've seen that the request from the loop takes up to 1 second. Is there a better way to retrieve just the posts I'm interested in (like the most recent 1000), perhaps using another technique? A: I would suggest limiting your API calls and only calling the ones you need. I would suggest putting in a start limit of 1000 at a time, then page them and select the next 1000. $start = 0; $limit = 1000; $facebook = new Facebook(array('appld' => 'YOUR_APP_ID', 'secret' => 'YOUR_APP_SECRET', 'cookie'
