A: You can use `v-on` to bind event handler to dynamic components. `v-on` is more convenient and is a better way to connect function to dynamically created components (This is the standard practice to register event handler to dynamic components). Below is the modified script of yours. `V-on` can be used instead of the binding. The browser's console should show the warning message. Updated Code: `export default { data() { return { count: 0, } }, methods: { remove(key) { this.count--; }, add() { this.count++; }, render() { let newDiv = null; const cards = [ { { key } } : - + ]; return ( { { index + 1 } } { { card.text } } ); }, }, }; Working DEMO:`
