In a bid to clear the backlog of abandoned or stalled projects, the Government has invited proposals to develop a training and certification module for its sand-reclamation process.

Finance Minister, Lim Guan Eng, said the National Water Services Commission (Supreme) (Nabim) decided to hold an open tender for this purpose in view of the ever-growing backlog of abandoned or stalled projects. The contractors would be required to undertake a training and certification module (TCM) with regard to sand-reclamation. "This open tender will be done on-line and will be open for two weeks, starting from today (Thursday). "We only want contractors who can deliver, who can do a good job and in the long run we want this to be cost effective. " He said the contractor must have the capability and capacity to develop a TCM in accordance to their e79caf774b connectors including a single vented valve. The single vent valve is especially suitable for use in polyvinyl chloride (PVC) plumbing systems. A primary concern with single vent applications is the size of the vent connection. One way of reducing the size of the vent connection is to reduce the diameter of the vent port.

However, reducing the size of the vent port reduces the amount of air flow through the vent port. As a result, less air is vented through the vent port thus reducing the drying effect. Another way of reducing the size of the vent connection is to connect the vent port
